MELISSA'S MISSION:

1. As a composer, I believe that music is not only a form of expression but a means of communication. My primary mission is to connect with my audience so that they discover and understand the ideas, emotions, and narratives in my music.
2. I want my music to be relevant to the world around it and exist in that world. It is inspired by and explores real-world issues of social justice and personal relationships.
3. I am deeply committed to bringing the voices of women and minorities to the stage, either by telling their stories, or telling stories from their perspective.
